PRE-APPEAL BRIEF REQUEST FOR REVIEW

Sir:

Applicants request that a Panel Review of the rejections in the Final Office Action dated October 20, 2005, be performed in the above identified application.

REMARKS

CLAIMS 1-8 ARE REJECTED UNDER 35 U.S.C. § 102 AS BEING ANTICIPATED BY SANDBERG-DIMENT, U.S. PATENT NO. 5,826,245 (HEREINAFTER SANDBERG)

Sandberg fails to teach the claimed interactions between first party and second party

On page 2 of the Request for Reconsideration filed December 12, 2005, Applicants argued the following:

The claimed invention is directed to performing trust negotiations between two parties: a first (server) party and second (client) party. In contrast, Sandberg teaches interactions between three parties: a remote terminal 12 (i.e., customer), a merchant 16, and a verification agent 20.

Despite this clear description of the overall differences between the claimed invention and Sandberg, the Examiner misstated Applicants' argument in the Advisory Action in which the Examiner asserted:

Applicant argues that cited art fails to show two parties which Applicant names client and server. However the art shows a client and computer/network (column 2, lines 32-55), which indisputably is a client and a server.

As readily apparent from the Examiner's response, the Examiner has ignored Applicants' argument that the claimed invention is not only directed to two different parties (e.g., a client and a server), the claimed invention is also directed to the interactions between these two parties, and it is these interactions between the two parties that Sandberg fails to identically disclose.

Sandberg teaches interactions between three parties, and on pages 2 and 3 of the Request for Reconsideration, Applicants further explained how none of the interactions between any two of the three parties described by Sandberg (i.e., remote terminal 12, merchant 16, and verification agent 20) identically disclose the claimed interactions between the two parties recited in the claims. The Examiner's comments in the Advisory Action, however, fails to address Applicants' arguments regarding Sandberg's failure to identically disclose the recited interactions between the two parties in the claims.

Examiner improperly relied upon the "Background" disclosure in Sandberg

On page 4 of the Request for Reconsideration, Applicants argued that the Examiner improperly relied on column 1, lines 5-30 of Sandberg, which is described as "Background," to teach the claimed "eager strategy." Even assuming arguendo that the "Background" of Sandberg teaches the claimed "eager strategy," the Examiner has failed to establish that the disclosure found in the "Background" (i.e., Fig. 1) of Sandberg is applicable to the teachings (i.e., Figs. 2 and 3) described as being directed to Sandberg's invention. The Examiner did not address this issue in the Advisory Action.

Examiner has misread claim 1

On pages 4 and 5 of the Request for Reconsideration, Applicants noted that the Examiner clearly misread claim 1. The Examiner did not address this issue in the Advisory Action.

Examiner's interpretation of "parsimonious strategy" is improper

On page 5 of the Request for Reconsideration, Applicants argued that the Examiner ignored the limitations associated with the claimed "parsimonious strategy" and failed to indicate where in Sandberg these teachings can be found. The Examiner's comments in the Advisory Action merely restate the Examiner's initial assertion.

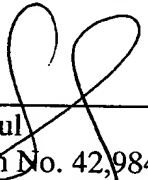

Examiner failed to establish that Sandberg explicitly or inherently identically discloses the claimed "eager strategy" and "parsimonious strategy"

As argued on pages 5 and 6 of the Request for Reconsideration, the Examiner has failed to establish that Sandberg explicitly identically discloses the claimed eager and parsimonious strategy. Furthermore, the Examiner has failed to establish that these features are inherently disclosed per the requirements of M.P.E.P. § 2112. The Examiner did not address this issue in the Advisory Action.

To the extent necessary, a petition for an extension of time under 37 C.F.R. § 1.136 is hereby made. Please charge any shortage in fees due in connection with the filing of this paper, including extension of time fees, to Deposit Account 09-0461, and please credit any excess fees to such deposit account.
